

Library Corner November 2010

ERJ

What makes large epidemiological studies comparable?

I. Cerveri and R. De Marco

Eur Respir J 2010 36:720-721

Is tidal expiratory flow limitation predictive of sleep-related disorders in the elderly?

M. Guillot, F. Costes, E. Sforza, D. Maudoux, L. Bertoletti, J.C. Barthélémy, and F. Roche

Eur Respir J 2010 36:842-848

Influence of secular trends and sample size on reference equations for lung function tests

P.H. Quanjer, J. Stocks, T.J. Cole, G.L. Hall, S. Stanojevic, and on behalf of the ERS Global Lungs Task Force

Eur Respir J *erj*01100-2010

The Effect of Ambient Air Pollution on Exhaled Nitric Oxide in the Children's Health Study

K. Berhane, Y. Zhang, W.S. Linn, E.B. Rappaport, T.M. Bastain, M.T. Salam,
T. Islam, F. Lurmann, and F.D. Gilliland

Eur Respir J *erj*00814-2010

Nature and severity of lung function abnormalities in extremely preterm children at 11 y

S. Lum, J. Kirkby, L. Welsh, N. Marlow, E. Hennessy, and J. Stocks
Eur Respir J erj00711-2010

REVIEW

A Physiological Model of Patient-Reported Breathlessness During Daily Activities in COPD

C.J.Jolley and J. Moxham
Eur Respir J 2009; 18: 112, 66-79

Correspondence

J.E. Hansen

Assessment of bronchoreversibility in severe emphysema
Eur Respir J 2010 36:972

From the authors:

M.K. Han and F.J. Martinez
Eur Respir J 2010 36:973

Another year almost over, hope you are all fit and well out there. Please let me know if you would like anything added to LC, or a change of format or anything else that might add to this resource.

Thanks

Alison