The Robert Jensen Award for Excellence in Respiratory Measurement

This Society prize, valued at $US 2,000.00, will be awarded for the first time at the Annual Scientific Meeting in Brisbane in 2010. The prize will be awarded to the presentation judged as best representing excellence in respiratory measurement, with both Oral and Poster presentations being eligible. This award has been kindly donated by Professor Robert Jensen, Hon. ANZSRS member in recognition of the quality of ANZSRS members' work, and is aimed at providing the recipient an opportunity to present their work at other scientific forums.

Eligibility Criteria:

- The presenter must be a financial Member of ANZSRS (Associate, Ordinary or Life Membership).
- A maximum of one award may be won by an individual Society member.
- All research presentations made at the 2010 ASM will be eligible for this Award providing:
  - The presenter had significant input into all aspects of the project
  - The work has not previously been presented at another national scientific meeting.

Conditions:

- All documentation associated with abstract submission, including Conflict of Interest Statement, must be completed.
- Recipients will be expected to provide a letter to the Society Publications Editor for the Society Webpage summarising their presentation.
- Recipients are encouraged to use the Award to attend an international meeting of their choice.
- Recipients are required to give a presentation on the conference attended to their local branch meeting within 3 months of attending the meeting.
- Recipients must acknowledge the sponsor of the Award.
- Judging for this award will be in accordance with the ANZSRS Guidelines on Judging Presentations at Annual Scientific Meeting (available from the Society website).
